Bible Words for Today

MARK 12:28-29 — "He . . . asked him, 'Which commandment is the first of all?' Jesus answered, 'The first is, 'Hear, O Israel: The Lord your God, the Lord is one; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength.'" (RSV)

A sense of balance is the thing which keeps the tightrope walker steady and safe upon his wire. A sense of balance is also the thing that keeps the Christian steady and safe in the whole gospel and prevents him from becoming a fanatic or a heretic. Recognizing man's tendency to drift off into extremes, Jesus selected as the first commandment this passage from Deuteronomy which emphasizes the necessity for loving God with our entire being. He even added "the mind" or reason to the list.

Too many Christians have overlooked this emphasis upon a worship growing out of the whole being and have concentrated on one aspect alone. A love of God with heart only, that forgets the mind, becomes shallow sentimentality. A love that concentrates on strength may be lost in mere activism. A love that overstresses reason becomes a cold intellectualism. Only the whole man is enough for loving the one God.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Secret of Health and Happiness

Isn't it strange how we take the blessing of health and happiness for granted? Have you ever thought what it would mean if you were deprived of them?

In my own Marble Collegiate Church pulpit in New York one Sunday, suddenly I began to feel strange. I went alternately hot and cold. I became tense, dizzy, numb. Things seemed to whirl around me.

Only by exerting the greatest effort of prayer and self-control was I able to continue with the service.

I had never experienced anything quite like this before, having been blessed with good health all my life. Naturally, I began to analyze myself, to diagnose my problem. And all of a sudden, a shocking thought came to me. Suppose this were the last time I would ever preach from the pulpit.

RIGHT THEN, I DECIDED there was one thing I wanted more than anything else. And I wanted it so much, I would have paid anything for it. I wanted assurance that I could keep on with my work. In that moment I had an indescribable longing for the certainty of good health for a continuation of my joy in life.

I am glad that that moment of self-revelation. My difficulty turned out to be nothing more than a slight virus attack and it passed. But that experience made me realize how important it is to teach the relationship between good, sound health and good, sound religion.

The other day a friend of mine who had just turned 50 and was trying to recall a name and couldn't. "I guess you just have to expect it," he said, "that when you reach your fifties, you can't remember things any more."

BUT IT DOESN'T have to be that way at all. The notion that we have to slump is false. We are children of God and if we keep in contact with His creative power, we can have health and happiness and mental alertness.

Some time ago, in a hotel lobby, a man I had known for a good many years pushed the swinging door with such vigor that he nearly knocked me off my feet. "Brother," I said, "you're certainly bursting with energy!"

"I feel good," he told me. As we stood talking together, I was amazed, for I had remembered him as a man filled with aches and pains, apathetic, dull, always half sick, though actually there never seemed anything seriously wrong with him. Now he appeared transformed and filled with vigor. I asked him for an explanation.

"Why," he answered, "I just decided to cooperate with the laws of God. I had always known them; now I apply them."

I THOUGHT THIS amazingly wise. It is a fact that we can live with health and happiness by cooperating with the laws of God; that is, by not hating or fearing, and by having real convictions and an attitude of trust. Of course, this is not easy. However, it is possible for every one of my readers. We can discipline our minds, and think God's healthy thoughts, and healthy thinking goes far toward healthy living. People who have developed these thought patterns have made contact with an actual re-creative life force.

Keep filling your mind with faith, trust and love, and you will channel into yourself that which re-creates, reproduces and revitalizes health and happiness within you. That is a great secret of health and happiness, and it is available to all.

WHAT RELIGION

DID FOR BASEBALL!

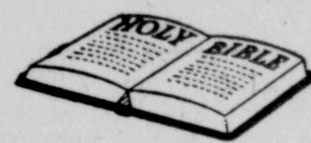

Today's athlete wants to win fairly according to the rules. Primitive man had no rules, no sense of fair play.

In the intervening centuries man learned more of God. He began to apply basic religious principles of honesty and integrity to all the activities of life. Finally, he decided that even his games ought to be played by such standards.

Sometimes we say that sports build character. We really mean that fair play—the religious principle we have tried to incorporate in our games—turns mere competitive effort into a character-molding experience.

But life is more than a game . . . and Christian character is more than sportsmanship.

The Church teaches all of us the principles of moral and spiritual living. It brings us into a reverent relationship with God himself. Its truths not only inspire fair play . . . but victorious living.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

That Was Normalcy

The next time statisticians put an addition on the economic thermometer because they have run out of space for bigger figures, it is likely they will use today's readings on the thermometer as their "normal."

The United States has had a stable economy for the last 12 months. There is nothing in sight at the moment to suggest an interruption in stability. The "normalcy" that men talk about in booms and busts as the condition most to be desired is here. But like those "good old days" that men also talk about, "normalcy" is never as attractive in reality as it becomes in retrospect.

For one thing, it is spotty. There are varying degrees of booming and busting, inside separate industries and among all industries. One auto manufacturer is going like a house afire; another is not keeping pace. Private building is down, but public building is up. Hours of manufacturing employment are shorter, although hourly rates are higher. Employment is back to more than 70 million, but unemployment stays closer to 3 million than 2 million. Department - store sales are up, but freight carloadings are down. The Dow-Jones average is about the same as it was a year ago, but that is no solace to the bulls who want it to be higher.

It is neither a buyer's nor a seller's market, all things considered — and that leaves both sides with something to be desired. In short, it is normalcy.

Game For Keeps

You cannot tell the players without a program in the furor over the U.S. soldier who has been turned over to Japanese authorities to stand trial on a charge of killing a Japanese civilian.

The players on one side are U.S. officials who must maintain good relations with civil authority in Japan, Taiwan, Iceland, the Philippines, Korea, West Germany, Britain — and everywhere else where resentment against U.S. troops is a problem. These officials represent the constitutional responsibility of the U.S. executive department for the armed forces and foreign policy.

Arrayed against them are critics in the legislative department who have struggled stubbornly since the time of George Washington to whittle down executive responsibility. Every time they propose a change that would shift authority away from the executive department, they are whittling. This is spoken of politely as the "balance of power" in the United States. Realistically, it is a struggle for power which keeps the power in balance because the struggle is never-ending.

The Eisenhower administration either had to let Japan assert sovereignty over the killing of a Japanese civilian or face the prospect of more bloody anti-United States riots like the recent one in Taiwan. It knew in advance about the furor this would cause in Congress. It will help if the spectators know what the furor is about before they take sides.

We Get The Idea

The manager of the Ohio State Fair, D. Robert Jones, thinks there will have to be some changes made in county fairs to reflect modern living.

We get the idea. We got it last fall while watching the 4-H boys and girls who were exhibiting those incredibly blocky steers that show up later on as beefsteak.

The boys and girls were reflecting modern living. They looked, sounded and acted like kids who ask all the questions and know all the answers. They were as proud of those blocky steers they had hand-raised as they were of their "customized" automobiles, hi-fi sets and mastery of the jargon which identified them as up-to-the-minute representatives of their generation. There was not a sign of hayseed.

We do not know what other things the manager of the big Ohio State Fair has in mind for the little fairs, but if they will put the modern farm kids on the midway and the world's oldest and sleaziest sucker games over in the corner of the fairgrounds, we would settle for that.

Decent Manners

After each Memorial Day in recent years, the observation has been made that fewer men than ever know enough to remove their hats when the U.S. flag passes by in a parade. It was made again this year.

We agree that this common fault grows commoner year by year. The reason is no mystery. It is the general decline of decent manners. Respect for the flag of this country is in the same class with respect for the aged, for persons who have won distinction, for women and, in a general sense, for the rights of others.

There is less of this than there used to be, and there will be less of it year by year if neglect of decent manners continues. This is a deficiency in home training that schoolteachers cannot hope to overcome. In fact, schoolteachers, themselves, are victims of rude behavior that makes them wonder if children are trained in manners at all any more.

Religion At Work

A Fit Dwelling Place

The year's finest season for outdoor life is at hand, and the next few weeks will find millions of Americans engaged in daily recreational activities.

Playing fields will be crowded with sports enthusiasts, camps of all sizes and types will be busy, gardeners will work early and late and vacationers will take to the highway, the seashore, the mountains and streams.

The annual rebuilding and recharging of the physical fitness and mental alertness of the nation will be in full swing.

THERE ARE TWO reasons over and above the pleasures of good health and an enjoyable holiday why this is important.

First, man, as he is constituted physically and mentally, is still the most perfect "machine" ever made. In spite of the wonders of science in this day and age of automation, the human body and mind outstrip anything yet invented to take their place.

A report to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science sometime ago pointed out that the human eye and ear are still superior to any of the new artificial devices for transmitting sight and sound.

Man's sense of touch is more reliable than present - day machines in receiving and decoding messages. His physical strength for short periods of time is remarkable.

The report concludes that man retains, even today in the robot age, abilities not duplicated by any machine.

SO THE HEALTH and well being of the human body and mind are as important to society today as has ever been the case.

Secondly, mankind has an obligation to God to keep his body and mind in as perfect condition as possible. His physical and mental attributes are gifts from God, and it is as ungrateful to abuse them or permit them to deteriorate unnecessarily as it is to abuse or destroy any worthwhile gift.

The physical and mental bodies which make up mankind are the dwelling place of the Spirit of God which resides within each individual. Here is the priceless endowment, the link with the Supreme Being, the common Father over all.

We would not think of putting a precious stone in a cheap setting, or anything of true and lasting beauty in an unbecoming place! Likewise, the beauty and fineness of the Spirit within us deserves our best efforts to house it in a manner appropriate to its value.

Little Radio Schoolhouse

By JOHN SHAW

Eighty Australian schoolchildren have their daily lessons in the biggest classroom in the world without seeing their teacher.

Their classroom is a vast, million-acre stretch of sheep country and desert where the borders of four Australian states meet 600 miles west of Sydney.

The pupils are the children of ranchers in this lonely hinterland. They get their lessons — an hour a day — by two-way radio because there are hundreds of miles from the nearest school.

Their teacher, Mrs. Phyllis Gibb, wife of a Presbyterian minister, guides her class from a studio attached to the public school in the lead-mining town of Broken Hill, the nearest center to the vast "classroom."

Children between five and 11 years on isolated sheep stations tune in on "The School of the Air" for instruction every day.

Each child has his or her own call - signal. In Mrs. Gibb's studio hands don't shoot up to answer a question — the air waves crackle as a child with the answer gives the call sign to identify himself to the teacher.

"School of the Air" has been going for six months now. And already some of the children are learning faster than their city cousins in conventional schools right under the eye of their teachers.

Mrs. Gibb has had long experience of dealing with children by radio. For 10 years she conducted a Sunday School class by wireless for "outback" children.

Her radio lessons are designed to supplement the correspondence lessons the children already get when the once-a-week mail plane touches down in their home paddocks.

The same radio network is also used by the district's flying doctor service which is always on call ready to send an airborne medical team to the lonely farms.

When the radio school first started some of the country kids were too shy to go on the air and "attend" lessons.

Mrs. Gibb says: "The children's confidence has gradually been built up over the six months we've been operating. The other day three of the shyest girls suddenly all came in together and sang a little song for me and the class."

"That was the last barrier — they are very keen now to answer questions and read over their homework essays."

Soon the School of the Air will have its first graduates. Some of the children of 11 years are being sent from the ranches to city schools — and they'll leave the hand microphones and transmitters to their younger brothers and sisters in the biggest classroom in the world.

Homesteading

By DAVID BARNETT

Get a yen for a parcel of land you can call your own?

All you need is plenty of the pioneering spirit and a pocketful of luck to obtain a real hideaway from the U.S. government dirt cheap.

The land is available — some 170 million acres of it, according to Dan Baker, Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior.

But much of it is fit only for animals — for grazing, that is. Some of it is practically desert. But you could be lucky.

A group from Zeeland, Mich., bought 40 acres from the government on an island in Lake Michigan for $400. That sort of land makes a primitive but prime vacation spot.

The first thing you have to do is find the government-owned tract. Then you have to make sure it is available under the small tracts act. The law permits the secretary of the interior to sell or lease the land, most of which was left over when those who "went west" picked spots for homesteading.

Generally, an individual can only get a five-acre plot but the government has on occasion permitted the sale of 7½ acres.

Almost all of the land is in the 11 western states, although there are a few patches left in the Ozark Mountains, off the Florida and Gulf coasts and in the Great Lakes.

Once you have discovered an eligible plot, you file an application and $10 with the local land office.

A field examiner takes a look. If the land is suitable for what you say you want it, he then can offer to lease it to you. (with or without an option to buy) or sell it to you.

For how much? Baker says the examiner must appraise the land at a "fair market value" at the time of the application. Yearly land rental probably would amount to about 1-20th the appraised value.

Or you may be able to persuade the government to hold a public auction for the land. This procedure is being used to get rid of some public land in Southern California right now.

Baker says the government is getting as much as $350 for plots of from 2½ to 5 acres.

Even when you think you're securely ensconced on your vacation land, you're not quite through with Uncle Sam. You have three years in which to make whatever improvements are required by the land office.

Be prepared to put a decent cottage on your recreation site to satisfy the government. "No tarpaper shack type of production — no eyeseers," says Baker.

Despite the "hardships," the business of disposing of the surplus government land is quietly booming in at least two areas.

Baker reports that in Clark County, Nev., and in Southern California, so many applications had been received, the authorities had to temporarily suspend the program to catch up on the backlog.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Atlas held up the world. And the Teamsters are holding up Atlas, if we take the word of the Army Engineers Corps.

Victor Riesel

This winged terror has been champing at its electronic chains for weeks at the Patrick Air Force Base in Florida, which was hit by a Teamster strike last May 21.

The saga of this IBM of some future day of wrath makes you think of the futility of the robot's electronic brain against a picket line.

Set aside, for the moment, the legitimacy of this strike called by a local of the Southern Conference of Teamsters.

FACT IS that the picket line locked in not only the Patrick Air Base but the nearby Cape Canaveral missile launching site, a giant missile control center and administration headquarters.

This strike also made earthbound the earth satellite and other secret gadgets of which Jules Verne and his rewrite man, Mike Todd never dreamed.

Irritated Army officials said this strike of some 500 Teamsters threatened to set back the nation's entire guided missile program.

One of the men in charge of the department of futuristic airborne, pilotless panzer division, Col. W. E. Elder, acting commander of the test center, snapped:

"Survey of our testing schedule clearly indicates that a further loss of construction man hours will seriously hamper our future testing operations."

"THESE OPERATIONS will progressively fall behind schedule unless the construction programs are resumed immediately. The Corps of Engineers has informed us that their construction schedules here are of a "CRASH NATURE AND DO NOT PROVIDE FOR A CUSION OF ANY KIND."

Part of that "crash nature" was word from President Eisenhower himself that he wanted the "thing" lifted off the ground by a deadline he himself set. Col. Elder got his own words off his chest on May 28. But the strike ran on.

It is, of course, the Teamsters' right to picket the contractors building these bases and installing the cradles for the mass destruction machines. It is also the Teamsters' right to help organize, as they did in the west, something called the Uranium Metal Trades Council.

On this council sit officials of Local 492 — a unit of the Western Conference of Teamsters.

IT IS THE TEAMSTERS' right to uncoerce truckers delivering equipment for the Army at the scandal-stocked Tobhanna Signal Corps Depot near Scranton.

And it is the Teamsters' right to demand that deliverers of materials to all military establishments carry a union card.

But it is similarly no oppression of the proletariat for the people to ask of the Teamsters that a union carrying such responsibilities clean itself up.

And we have a right to feel that there is more of a chance for such an internal clean up than Khrushchev has of convincing the Daughters of the American Revolution to sponsor his next television appearance.

Fact is that some of the people have been so fascinated by Dave Beck's infidelity to the workers' cause that all have overlooked the record of corruption right on down through the outfit.

LET'S LOOK at the record. The Justice Department discloses that the international president and three vice presidents of this union are under various federal indictments.

One other, already convicted, is heading for jail.

At least 31 other officials have been convicted on racketeering charges under the Hobbs Act and the Taft-Hartley law since 1953.

Nearly a score of still other officials are under indictment in Pennsylvania, New York, Chicago and other big cities.

Hundreds are being probed quietly. Many millions of dollars of Teamster funds have been mis-handled.

Obviously the Teamsters' own internal security isn't safeguarded. Who, then, can blame observers for worrying about the nation's external security where it depends on the policies of such a union?

What Is Corn?

By JERRY KLEIN

LAFAYETTE, Ind. Ordinarily, the word "corn" might not enter your mind from one bad joke to the next but at Purdue University scientists are thinking about corn—the vegetable variety—practically all the time.

What concerns them particularly is finding new uses for this ordinary—but mysterious—grain. Corn is ordinary because it's grown in every state of the Union—indeed it's overgrown, being America's biggest surplus crop.

Corn's mystery lies in the fact that for all its abundance, it is so highly domesticated a plant it would probably vanish from the earth overnight if men didn't keep planting it!

But with three-quarters of American farms raising corn, Purdue scientists are searching for new ways to use it.

According to Roy L. Whistler, professor of bio-chemistry: "It's time some of our colleges and agricultural experiment stations start looking for new uses for products as well as figuring out ways to grow more!"

SO FAR it's been discovered that corn can be converted into certain types of slick paper; it also can be made into plastics, wallboard and bread.

Corn cobs can be changed into hand lotion, and cornstarch can be used in oil fields to keep drilling mud properly gooey.

But all these new uses only begin to scratch the surface. For 90 per cent of the cereal is still shoveled away as feed for farm animals.

Still, corn has been described as "the most important plant in America. . . . The grain that built the hemisphere. . . and the most efficient plant we have for trapping the energy of the sun and converting it into food."

A botany professor at Harvard University, Paul Mangelsdorf, has pointed out that while man consumed only a small amount of corn directly, it is the basic food of our civilization when it is converted into meat, milk, eggs and other animal products.

YET CORN remains one of the most baffling mysteries of nature, too.

Technically, it is a grass, but its reproductive system is unique.

Corn has been said to be "superbly constructed for producing grain under man's protection, but it has a low survival value in nature for it lacks a mechanism of seed dispersal; when an ear of corn drops to the ground, scores of seedlings emerge, creating such fierce competition among themselves for moisture and soil nutrients that usually all die and none reaches the reproductive stage."

Corn seems to be a particularly American plant, too. The Bible doesn't mention its existence in the ancient world, nor do the Greeks—though this ancient people was said to have a word for everything.

Seeds of wheat and barley, and fabrics of flax and hemp, have been found in excavations in Asia, but no trace of corn.

The ancient Babylonians and Egyptians pictured and described many crops but nowhere is anything like corn mentioned or shown.

INDEED, the very first reference to this now common crop came on Nov. 5, 1492. Two men, sent by Christopher Columbus to investigate the interior of Cuba, told of discovering "a sort of grain they call maize which was well tasted, baked, dried and made into flour."

Later explorers in the new world found corn being raised by Indians all the way from Chile to Canada.

At the University of Chicago, scientists who examined remains of the plant estimated that corn was cultivated in South America 1,000 years before Christ, and in North America 2,000 years before.

Of course, the corn grown in those days was quite different from our modern varieties which have been developed in scientific laboratories—it was smaller and apparently much less tasty.

Tip to June graduates: hunt for jobs instead of positions — you'll have better luck.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Bird Calls From The Kremlin

Flash: Nikita Khrushchev just shot his tailor because he didn't leave holes in the new gray TV business suit through which his WINGS could show.

Americans are still talking about the Kremlin's greatest propaganda victory in history, the dropping of a guided inter-continental Soviet chief into the living rooms of our country. How serious is the "fallout" from a ballistic Kremlin chief is problematical. But we think the free world should demand EQUAL TIME.

IT IS ALWAYS interesting to get a close-up of the other fellow, but the ease with which the Communist leader dropped into millions of American homes for a Sunday visit to pipe the Soviet line to the largest free world audience of his career, via a top American video program, as well as radio, is still flabbergasting.

Mr. Khrushchev stuck to the same old stuff, but did it with such geniality we thought at times he was trying to be Father of the Year.

The iron curtain labored and brought forth a skilled panel star. Five minutes more and we would have suspected he was attempting a video re-run of "Peter Pan."

THIS WAS A 1957 model Stalin with smarter lines, softer upholstery and push-button affordability.

It was the Kremlin big switch from the Groul to the Grin and from the cold cellar to the rumpus room.

Nikita couldn't have held a TV audience better if he had brought a guitar.

It was a commercial for the filter-tip exorcism and such a change from the old-time vociferous, abusive noisy routine that we wouldn't have been surprised if the program had used a jingle "You wonder where the BELLOW went." (The word is bellow, Mr. Proofreader, please.)

MR. KHRUSHCHEV went in for sartorial perfection. The old unpressed clothes had been vetoed.

He looked dapper enough to be a Men of Distinction endorsing vodka. In fact, when the iron curtain went up he could have been mistaken for an American business executive all set for a pitch for a new linoleum.

Here was no obvious hard guy and invective hurler but a smooth and slick operator on any TV show.

It was like suddenly seeing Ferris wheels and flying horses in Red Square or hearing "Love Letters in the Sand" being sung from a Kremlin balcony.

In some respects, indeed, Nikita Khrushchev is the Pat Boone of the intercontinental telecast.

HE IS DISTINCTLY a new danger, unless you take his words at their two-faced value. (What did he say? He said Russia never tries to impose communism anywhere outside Russia, that there is no communistic rule anywhere not set up by the will of the people and that when the folks in any land wish to throw off the Red yoke they are free to do so without the slightest interference from the Kremlin.) Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany please write!

ROSSELLINI HAS HAD his Indian visa extended on a promise to keep away from the object of his affections. . . . Passive resistance, ya mean?

On Children's Day in Moscow, American small fry were pictured as slave kids, knowing no comforts and forced to raid garbage cans for food. . . . Yes, American children are pretty pathetic as they come up, rarely knowing where their next hardtop is coming from. Millions of them are even forced to go to school in cars without push-button windows.

1. The 'blue triangle' symbolizes development of Body, Mind and Spirit.

2. The YWCA is for adults as well as the youth of the Community.
3. YWCA activities will reach women, men and youth of Salem and adjacent communities.
4. The future of our City and our America is in the hands of youth.

The YWCA is Youth — Adult Partnership, an enterprise in which women and girls are equally members. All women and girls are welcomed in the YWCA whatever their age, income, race, religion or nationality.

The youth of today is a responsibility of every citizen who faces a challenge and a privileged opportunity to make his country and his community a better place in which to play and to work and to live. Above all, our civic pride, our deep regard for children, our self respect all combine within us and call for action now in providing a YWCA building, worthy of our City.

Mrs. Edith M. Ritz caught a vision of this worthy addition to our city when she willed the "residue of her estate toward the construction of a local YWCA." This is once in a life time opportunity for the people of Salem. Let's take advantage of this opportunity and meet the challenge!

Membership in the YWCA in Salem and surrounding communities over a seven month period is nearing the 1400 mark. These women and girls deserve a Home for this newly organized YWCA. It is not in competition or in duplication with other community agencies, but supplements them.

Week-Long Program Planned June 23-30

Lisbon Presbyterian Sesqui Services Set

LISBON — The sesquicentennial observance of the founding of the First Presbyterian Church will be held the week of Sunday, June 23, through Sunday, June 30, according to Rev. Paul T. Gerrard, pastor.

The theme of the 150-year celebration will be "The Church of Yesterday" and "The Church of Tomorrow." Rev. P. W. Macaulay, pastor of the church from 1919-27 and now chaplain at the state mental hospital in Cleveland, will deliver the opening sermon June 23 at 10:50 a.m.

The second service, June 25 at 8 p.m., will be in charge of the women's association and will present the historical background of the church, both nationally and locally, plus the part which women's organizations have played in the church's progress.

The June 27 service, starting at 8 p.m., will be a homecoming and family night under the sponsorship of the Sunday School officers and church officials.

JUNE 30 FINAL services will be conducted by Rev. Jarvis M. Cotton, vice-president of the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. It will start at 10:50 a.m. Rev. Cotton was pastor of the local church from 1927 to 33, and his sermon will be "The Church of Tomorrow."

Rev. Clement Vallandigham accepted the call of the Presbytery in April, 1807 and was ordained as pastor June 24 the same year. The church was organized four years after Ohio was admitted as a state. It was also four years after New Lisbon was laid out by Lewis Kenney, Columbiana County, at that time, was still a hunting grounds for Indians.

Rev. Vallandigham had been licensed to preach the year before he accepted the call. He was 29, and his first sermon was "They That Dwell in the Wilderness Shall Bow Before Him." He also served as pastor of Long's Run Presbyterian Church near Calcutta.

FIRST WORSHIP services were held in tents and later in a log court house on the square. In 1813 Lewis Kenney and his wife deeded the southeast corner of Beaver Street directly behind the new county jail. A meeting house was built there in 1814. The first child baptised was James Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson Wilson. The church grew rapidly and by 1825 it had 285 members. Because of the growth, it was decided in 1837 to build a larger church and in 1840 a building was constructed on the northeast corner of Market and Chestnut Streets where present church now stands.

Under the custom of those days, pews were sold and some familiar names buying them were: David Anderson, for whom the local high school is named; Fisher A. Blockson, Daniel Harbaugh, William McClelland, Samuel Watson, B. K. Roach, George Endley, Samuel Martin, John Heppner, James L. Vallandigham, W. Calhoun, James Patterson, James Kerr, A. Whan, and C. F. Helman.

THE CORNERSTONE for the new building was laid Aug. 5, 1895 by Rev. Dr. A. B. Marshall. A box was deposited in the cornerstone by the minister, Rev. J. P. Anderson. Among the things it contains are a sermon by Rev. Vallandigham, a copy of the constitution of faith and first number of the Presbyterian Quarterly, the official roster of church officers and other papers concerning the activities of the church. The first service held in the new church was in December of that year.

In 1924 during the pastorate of Rev. P. W. Macaulay, the church was remodeled and enlarged. A new organ was installed also.

The church at the present time, with Rev. Paul T. Gerrard as pastor, has 792 members.

Pastors and the time served since the church was first founded are: Clement Vallandigham, 1807-39; A. O. Patterson, 1840-51; William Y. Brown, 1853-1856; E. R. McGregor, 1856-58; O. M. Todd, 1859-66; Robert Dickson, 1868-71; George N. Johnson, 1872-78; A. B. Marshall, 1879-87; Alonzo Michael, 1888-90; L. F. Lavery, 1890-92; J. P. Anderson, 1892-1904; Robert E. Pugh, 1904-08; John C. Strubel, 1909-18; P. W. Macaulay, 1919-27; Jarvis M. Cotton, 1927-33; J. Morgan Cox, 1934-45 and Paul T. Gerrard, 1945-57.

Letters have been sent out to all former members to participate in the anniversary services.

Ike's Foreign Aid Bill Past First Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill has cleared its first hurdle, slimmer by more than 200 million dollars.

By a 12-3 vote, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the bill Friday after cutting $227,300,000 of the presidential request of $3,864,410,000.

In view of the congressional economy drive, some had expected heavier committee cuts.

The measure, now carrying authority for $3,637,110,000, faces rougher going next week on the Senate floor.

The committee - approved version gives the President authority to continue foreign aid beyond a year, and it also gives him flexibility in other ways.

Only two democrats — Morse of Oregon and Long of Louisiana — and one Republican, Langer of North Dakota, supported Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) when he offered an amendment to cut the over-all authority in the bill by about 800 million dollars. Langer voted by proxy from his sickbed.

In addition to the $3,637,110,000 in new spending authority, the committee also authorized re-appropriation of 500 million dollars for military assistance from funds left over from the current fiscal year.

And it authorized a two billion dollar, three year program for making loans for economic development abroad — providing for a 500 million dollar appropriation for the year starting July 1, plus authority to borrow 750 million from the treasury in each of the two succeeding years.

It also approved a two-year program for military assistance and defense supports, which would enable the State and Defense Departments to plan aid that far ahead.

of their experience:
While staying at a youth hostel in the border town of Rust, they picked up information from the local residents about the pattern of minefields and barbed wire guarding the frontier.
"We learned of a strip of land where a crossing could be made without encountering any such dangers—and there we went May 26," Hair said.
Near Lake Neusiedl, about two miles inside Hungary, they were picked up by Hungarian border guards, who took them to a military camp at nearby Sopron.
The following day, they were moved to Budapest and placed in separate prison cells. They were treated relatively well and given three meals a day.
They had to undergo several interrogations by Hungarian officers who asked them about living conditions in the United States, about their families and whether they had any relatives abroad.
"Though we asked, we were given no opportunity to contact U. S. diplomatic officials in Budapest during the entire period of confinement," said Gilbert.
They were taken from their cells at 6:30 p.m. Friday and sped to the border in a police car.
The youths said they planned to go to West Germany, then Holland en route back to the United States.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Hydrophobia

Most human cases of rabies or hydrophobia have been acquired from the bites of infected or rabid dogs, but the virus which causes rabies has also been found in foxes, cattle, skunks, cats, horses, squirrels, sheep and other creatures.

As a matter of fact there have been several cases of rabid bats biting humans in the past few years.

With this wide distribution of the rabies virus and because the preventive treatment of a person who has been bitten is not without risks (though much less dangerous than not to be treated at all) we cannot afford to let up on preventive measures or to ignore bites or scratches which might possibly have been made by an infected animal.

The origin of our modern efforts to combat rabies occurred in a Paris hospital December 10, 1880. A child was admitted to the hospital on that date with muscular spasms, restlessness, shuddering at the least breath of air, convulsions and terrific thirst accompanied by complete inability to swallow. This child victim of rabies died by suffocation from mucus 4 hours later.

Shocked by this and other tragic deaths from dog or wolf bites, principally in children the famous French scientist, Louis Pasteur, collected some of the mucus from this child about four hours after death. He mixed it with water and injected it into some rabbits. The rabbits died in less than 36 hours. The saliva from these animals was again collected and injected into other rabbits with similar results.

Lengthy work in the laboratory and with animals followed. Finally Pasteur developed a vaccine which he thought might be effective.

Several years later a nine-year-old boy from Alsace, who had been bitten by a rabid dog, was brought to the hospital. He had suffered 14 bites and was in great pain. All agreed that he was doomed to a horrible death if nothing could be done. Consequently, this boy, Joseph Meister, got the vaccine. He lived.

Since that time much work has been done on the vaccine. The fact that someone can be bitten by a rabid animal and given the vaccine after the bite in time to prevent the disease with slight risk means that it is essential to examine any animal biting a person.

The attack on rabies also includes elimination of the disease insofar as possible in those animals which carry it. Foxes should be trapped where rabies is common, since they may give it to dogs. Dogs should be vaccinated against rabies.

However, the identification of rabies in bats and knowledge that they can and do bite human beings has introduced a new and additional possible hazard. The horrible nature of the disease and the complete effectiveness of treatment, makes the application of all our present knowledge absolutely essential.

Major Election In Ohio Costs $3.37 Per Vote; Total Exceeds $13 Million

Administrative Costs Accounts For 2/3 Of The Total

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How much does a big election cost in Ohio like the one last fall in which full slate of officials was elected from President to coroner? Answer: $3.37 a vote.

A few quick questions among election officials here and there reduced this reaction:

"It would be real nice to know the answer, but where are you going to get it? So far as we now, no one ever has made a serious effort to dig out all the figures and pull them together."

That was six months ago, shortly after the 1956 election.

Associated Press correspondents—representing member newspapers and radio stations all over Ohio—have been digging into the records and adding machines have been clicking as winter passed, oftentimes into spring and summer finally stands on the doorstep.

Now Understand Why

Those who have passed through the maze of figures now understand why a total Ohio election cost figure never has been determined before.

Summed up, the total cost of state and county election administration and the reported campaign spending of all candidates is: $12,712,622.

Broken down, that amounts to $7,921,779 for election administration and $4,790,843 for reported campaign expenses.

Records show 3,761,322 Ohioans cast ballots in the 1956 general election.

Simple division shows that the cost of operating the vast election organization which receives and tabulates the votes was $2.10 for every vote cast.

And, in the weeks and months before the election, $1.27 worth of political persuasion and propaganda was tossed at the head of every citizen who went to the polls.

Two figures included in the 12 1/2 million dollar total were difficult to nail down:

Cost of Campaigns

1. Total spent in the campaigns of candidates for the Legislature and for county offices. To get these figures, Associated Press correspondents had to go to each county board of elections and personally examine each expense statement. The total: $1,729,708.

2. Total actually received and spent by Republican committees and candidates. This figure could be determined only after a series of complex "adjustments" to avoid, in many cases, a doubling up of the money actually spent in promoting the candidacies of many Republicans.

The Republican State Finance Committee, for instance, reported a distribution of campaign funds to candidates for Congress and state offices. The individual candidates—or their campaign committees—of course reported these funds as received and spent. The same procedure was followed by many GOP county committees.

This meant the individual spending statements of candidates and their committees had to be adjusted to deduct funds allocated to them by the state and county committees.

Facts Gradually Emerged

In this manner—and with the aid of a sharp pencil and a business machine that subtracts as well as adds—these facts gradually emerged from the arithmetical labyrinth.

Ohio candidates for Congress in last fall's campaign spent $138,492. Candidates for the U. S. Senate—and their personal committees—spent $251,469.

Candidates for all state offices, including governor, spent $322,913. Personal committees included: Political groups of all kinds—aside from candidates' personal committees—reported expenditures of a staggering $2,298,256.

These included the Ohio Republican Finance Committee, the Ohio Democratic State Executive Committee, two different committees representing the Ohio CIO, various branches of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee and various committees supporting Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee.

As the total of election expense plainly shows, nearly two-thirds of the cost lies in administrative costs.

Under 3 cents Per Vote

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, the state's chief election officer, estimates the expense of his office which can be charged against the 1956 general election at $99,099. That's less than three cents a vote.

But cost of the election in the various county boards was $7,822,680, about $2.07 a vote. By contrast, the 1952 presidential election cost in the county boards was $6,149,267, an increase of $1,673,413 in four years. Much of the difference, the secretary of state points out, is that the purchase of a number of voting machines was charged off by county boards against the 1956 election expense.

Another huge election expenditure which never shows up on any official statement: Thousands upon thousands of dollars of uncounted thousands of dollars which are spent by newspapers, radio and television stations and wire services to cover the campaigns and tabulate the vote. And there's the loss in production and work hours in those businesses and industries which permit time off to employees for balloting.

These and other expenses of which there is no record almost certainly push the total well above the 13 million dollar mark.

the myth of "greater selection out of town"

The dictionary defines a myth as "a thing whose existence is imaginary." And nothing is more imaginary than the idea that if you shop in some BIG CITY many miles from here you will have a wider choice of merchandise than in our local stores.

True, the metropolitan stores may show more individual items, but they're more of the same! In some cases they may not even have as much variety as your hometown merchants.

And when it comes to style, our storekeepers are just as up to the minute as their big-town brethren. That's because they send buyers to the same markets! The big stores have no monopoly on sources of supply.

When you compare local prices with those of out-of-town stores, don't forget what it costs you in gasoline, oil, car depreciation, parking fees and other expenses when you drive long distances. What might seem like a saving often turns into a loss.

When you buy from your hometown merchants you get:

Cleveland Defeated By Washington 11-7; 5th Loss In Row

Nats Slap Out Sixteen Hits

Indians Drop To Fourth In Standings

CLEVELAND (AP) — Now it's the last-place Washington Nationals' turn to fatten batting averages on crippled Cleveland Indians pitching.

The Nats slapped out 16 hits off six Tribe hurlers Friday night to win 11-7 and extend Cleveland's losing string to five straight, longest of the season. The defeat dropped the Indians to fourth in the American League. The Detroit Tigers moved up to third by beating New York, 6-3.

Three of the four runs in the eighth inning Washington rally, which broke a 7-7 tie, were unearned. Shortstop Larry Raines muffed a grounder to open the way, and the last run of the bunch came home when Rocky Colavito threw wild to second on Truman Clevenger's double.

Clevenger, greeted by Colavito's second homer, knotting the score at 7-7 in the seventh, relieved starter Chuck Stobbs and got credited for the victory, his fourth against no losses.

Stobbs, who has lost 15 in a row going back into last season, gave only two singles in the first four innings and built up a 4-0 lead. Milt Billings' home run off starter Bud Daley, a walk, Ed Fitzgerald's double and Eddie Yost's single produced three Washington runs in the second inning. A walk, singles by Jim Lemon and Bob Usher and Bolling's sacrifice fly added another tally in the third.

Three walks, one of which forced in a run, plus singles by Jim Busby and Bob Avila brought Cleveland three runs in the fifth, and Colavito's first homer of the game added another in the sixth.

Stobbs boosted Washington's lead to 7-4 in the seventh with his two-run double off Ray Narleski, but the Tribe came back with three runs in its half to tie the score. Stobbs was removed after an Indian run was in on Raines' double and Vic Wertz's single. Then Colavito homered again—his seventh this season.

Dick Tomanek was charged with the loss, making his record 1-1. Not only was Tribe pitching ineffectual, but the Indians' pinch-hitting for pitchers drew a blank. Ken Kuhn was called out on strikes for Daley in the fourth, Eddie Robinson fanned for Mike Garcia in the fifth, Hal Naragon struck out for Narleski in the seventh, and Gene Woodling grounded out for Cal McLish in the eighth.

The story goes that Jack Sanford had to threaten a club official with a poke in the nose to stick with the Philadelphia Phillies this spring. It seems incredible—now that the fast-balling righthander is 7-1 and tops the National League with an .875 percentage.

In early April, however, it almost figured that Sanford might have to put the slug on somebody to ever make the majors. He was 27 and had kicked around in the minors for seven years.

He was 1-0 last year after joining the Phils when he left the

Predict Good Ohio Fishing Conditions Over Weekend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The crappies, catfish, bluegills, bass, perch and carp will be biting this week end, the Ohio Division of Wildlife said in its weekly lake and stream report.

Fishing conditions throughout the state should be "fair to good," the division added.

Here's the sectional outlook:

NORTHWEST—Most lakes and streams in fair to good condition. East Harbor, Oxbow Lake, Lake St. Marys and Metzger Lakes in fairly good condition. Considerable numbers of fish are being taken.

NORTHEAST—Practically all waters clear and normal. Good fishing results reported from Pleasant Hill in Ashland County, Berlin and Milton in Mahoning County. Portage Lakes in Summit County, and such streams as Huron River in Erie County, Mill Creek in Mahoning County and the Ohio Canal in Summit County.

EAST CENTRAL AND SOUTH-EAST—The top fishing spots are in Clevelander and Tappan lakes in Perry County, Burr Oak in Morgan County and Seneca Lake in Noble County. Most major streams in good fishing condition with the Muskingum River producing excellent catches of catfish.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH—Barring further rains, most major streams including the Big and Little Darby, Big and Little Walnut, Michigan River and the Kookosing should be in fair to good condition. Best lakes are Delaware and Hoover reservoirs, Rocky Fork and Jackson Lake, Buckeye Lake and Madison Lake.

NORTHWEST—Virtually all waters, with the exception of streams in Brown, Clinton and Warren counties, in good condition. Most lakes, including Grant, Kiser, Cowan, Sinclair, Indian and Laramie are producing bass, bluegills, crappies, carp and catfish.

SANDUSKY BAY—Fishing has been good for catfish, perch, crappies and sheepshead. In the Bass Island area, rock bass, perch some bass and white bass are being taken.

Wiffi Smith Leads In Women's Tourney

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Wiffi Smith, a freckle-faced redhead who can't be bothered with discussing golf shots, carried a four stroke lead into the third round of the Ladies PGA championship today and left all hands wondering whether it will turn out to be a runaway or a great golf tournament.

Off the first two rounds, Miss Smith figures to have the top money almost wrapped up. She had rounds of 68, a course record, and 71 for a 139 total. None of her 25 rivals could score consistently.

Wiffi put the crusher on Louise Suggs, her strongest challenger, on the finishing holes of Friday's second round at the Churchill Valley course. Miss Suggs posted a 36-hole score of 143.

Another stroke back at 144 were defending champion Marlene Bauer Hage, who had a second round of 75 after an opening 69, and sturdy Joyce Ziske of Waterford, Wis. Patty Berg and Alice Bauer, Marlene's sister, still were within striking distance of the lead with 145 totals.

Today's third round also marked the National Golf Day score for Mrs. Kathy Cornelius, who will defend her U. S. Women's Open championship at Winged Foot later this month.

Mrs. Cornelius, who has had 77 and 72 so far, will count her third round score in the national charitable competition sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn.

Any player, pro or amateur, who wants to try to beat her can have that privilege by posting a dollar fee for charity.

Brooklyn Trims Cincinnati 6-3

Redlegs Collect Only Three Hits

BROOKLYN (AP)—The fabled hitting power of the Cincinnati Redlegs is faltering, and their chief rivals for the National League lead have capitalized on the deficiency.

The latest setback was Brooklyn's 6-3 trimming of the Reds Friday night. The power-packed Redlegs collected only three hits.

It was the fourth Redleg loss in five games.

The Reds' slump has tightened the team's National League lead to the smallest of margins—one-half game ahead of aspiring Brooklyn and Philadelphia's ambitious Phillies.

Friday night's win for Brooklyn was largely the product of righthander Roger Craig.

Craig gave up only these hits to the Reds: A double and a single in the third inning after a walk that gave Cincinnati a brief 2-1 lead, and Ed Bailey's homer in the ninth.

But between those two weak spots, the Dodger righthander kept a tight rein on the Rhinelanders. Dodger Don Zimmer said before the game he was in a hitting slump. "I just can't borrow, beg or steal a base hit," he said.

Then he went out to double home the first Brooklyn run and hit a homer in the fourth inning.

Redleg starter Johnny Klippstein took the loss, retiring after the fourth inning. Tom Acker took over the post, but turned it over two innings later to Hersell Freeman.

Stevens said Moore told him May 4 that he would fight Anthony here if he was guaranteed $100,000.

"We're concerned with a reasonable defense of the title and Moore's promise to fight the winner of the Anthony-Spieser fight," Stevens said. "We're not interested in the money."

Stevens said, "I don't think we'd recognize a title defense in Europe against a European fighter."

Brooklyn tied the game, 2-2, on a double and a single, and took a firm lead with homers by Rube Walker and Zimmer.

The Dodgers added another marker in the seventh inning when Freeman was charged with a balk. This call resulted in Redleg Manager Birdie Tebbetts being thrown out of the game after a vigorous protest.

The final Dodger run came in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice.

Brooklyn has a chance to take over the league lead in today's game with the Reds. Johnny Podres is slated to oppose Warren Hacker on the mound.

Moore Must Defend Title By July 7

DETROIT (AP) — The National Boxing Assn. says Archie Moore must defend his light heavyweight crown in a United States bout by July 7 or relinquish the title.

The ultimatum by NBA President Floyd Stevens was the latest in repeated "put it on the line or get out" orders to the ancient vagabond. But this time the NBA says it means business.

It notified Moore Friday that he is suspended and that if he doesn't get into a U. S. fight within the month his title will be declared vacant and given to the winner of a series of elimination bouts.

The latest decree stems from Moore's failure to meet Tony Anthony of New York in a Detroit fight scheduled for Friday night.

Moore, in Germany on a European tour, threatened to sue the NBA for one million dollars "for attempting to deprive me of my right to make a livelihood."

"Let him sue," replied Stevens. The NBA president said Moore had agreed to fight the winner of the Anthony - Chuck Spieser bout held here last April. Anthony knocked out Spieser in the third round.

Stevens said Moore told him May 4 that he would fight Anthony here if he was guaranteed $100,000.

"We're concerned with a reasonable defense of the title and Moore's promise to fight the winner of the Anthony-Spieser fight," Stevens said. "We're not interested in the money."

Stevens said, "I don't think we'd recognize a title defense in Europe against a European fighter."

Fullmer Wins Over Jones

Comes On Strong In Final Rounds

CHICAGO (AP) — Ex-middleweight champion Gene Fullmer backedpalled his way into the title picture Friday night by winning a unanimous decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones at Chicago Stadium.

Fullmer, who only a month ago lost his title to Sugar Ray Robinson in the same ring, retreated through most of the 10 rounds of the nationally televised match and came on strong in the final rounds to win the bout.

Jones, who weighed 157, was disgusted with Fullmer's plans and said in his dressing room "I told him to start fighting and that he was supposed to have been a champion and he ought to fight like he was and he kept running."

However, Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, said his man's strategy called for the former champion to retreat until Jones came out of his crouch.

Jensen said Fullmer, 161, would seek a third match with Robinson but added that plans for a Robinson-Carmen Basilio match this September erased the West Jordan, Utah, battler's chances this year.

Jones moved in for a knockout from the opening bell but the Yonkers, N. Y., battler found himself on the short end when the two traded blows.

By the middle of the fight, Jones kept pressing and was booed by the crowd of 2,679.

Referee Joey White voted for Fullmer, 49-46. Judge Howard Walsh scored it 49-43 and Judge Frank Clark had it 49-44. The Associated Press saw it 46-45 for Fullmer. The bout was scored on Illinois' 5-point must system.

"We're concerned with a reasonable defense of the title and Moore's promise to fight the winner of the Anthony-Spieser fight," Stevens said. "We're not interested in the money."

Stevens said, "I don't think we'd recognize a title defense in Europe against a European fighter."

Brooklyn tied the game, 2-2, on a double and a single, and took a firm lead with homers by Rube Walker and Zimmer.

The Dodgers added another marker in the seventh inning when Freeman was charged with a balk. This call resulted in Redleg Manager Birdie Tebbetts being thrown out of the game after a vigorous protest.

The final Dodger run came in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice.

Brooklyn has a chance to take over the league lead in today's game with the Reds. Johnny Podres is slated to oppose Warren Hacker on the mound.

Stevens said Moore told him May 4 that he would fight Anthony here if he was guaranteed $100,000.

Lebanon Raceway To Conclude Meeting

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Steamboat Demon, a fleet Circleville, Ohio-based horse, and Grand R. Volo, Yonkers, N. Y., 4-year-old, grabbed off division wins in the fifth leg of the Trans American Pace Friday night at Lebanon Raceway.

Steamboat Demon's win enabled the Van Camp Stable entrant to climb into second place with 34 points in the 15-event Trans American race that leads to a $50,000 race later this year at Yonkers.

Both winners had to come from behind over a muddy track.

Steamboat Demon was in the middle of the first division pack up to the last eighth of a mile. Then the 4-year-old quickened pace and shaded Hi Hill in a photo finish after a 2:17 4-5 mile. Steamboat Demon paid $7.60, $3.80 and $2.80.

Grand R. Volo started to overhaul the leaders at the half-mile mark of the second division race and moved ahead to beat Widower Creed in 2:17 2-5. The Yonkers-based horse returned $7.20, $4.60 and $2.40.

The track concludes its 25-day spring meeting tonight with nine races. Track officials noted 5,440 visitors who wagered $105,427.

REDLEGS SIGN TWO

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs Friday signed contracts with two University of Toledo baseball players — pitcher Murray Guttman and first baseman Russ Bierley. Guttman, 22, 9-3 for Toledo this year, goes to Nashville of the Southern Assn. Bierley, 22, who batted .329 in three years with Toledo, reports to Savannah of the South Atlantic League.

FIGHT RESULTS

By The Associated Press
Chicago — Gene Fullmer, 161, West Jordan, Utah, outpointed Ralph (Tiger) Jones, 157, Yonkers, N. Y. 10.

Ready for the Summer shopping stampede?

June, July and August are busting out all over — in sales. Last year summer retail sales were $1,400,000,000 more than spring sales. Summer sales gains in 1956 over 1955 were 32% greater than gains for the average quarter for the rest of the year.*

Summertime is shopping time because shopping's easier. Days are longer and the weather is better. Our booming economy has given more people more money to spend. Last year civilian employment averaged an unprecedented 65 million and went as high as 66.8 million at the seasonal peak in the summer!*

Daily newspaper circulation is highest ever, too — now up over 57,000,000. And, important for advertisers — it remains practically constant throughout the year. There is no summer replacement for the newspaper!

Each summer more and more advertisers — national, regional and local — are rushing their ads into newspapers to take advantage of the surge in summer buying. Make sure you get your share of summer sales. Use the daily newspaper this summer — all summer.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers.
